YMCA Canada is a federation of 45 YMCAs and 8 YMCA-YWCAs serving more than 1.8 million people in hundreds of communities across Canada. At the national level, Associations work together to create resources, build capacity, and respond to social challenges. YMCA Canada is a member of the World Alliance of YMCAs.

Scott Haldane is YMCA Canada's President and Chief Executive Officer. His 33-year YMCA career has taken him from the West Island of Montréal where he began as a lifeguard, youth worker and branch executive, to the national office where he directed employment initiatives, and to Hamilton/Burlington as President and Chief Executive Officer before taking on the same role for the YMCA of Greater Toronto for seven years.

Scott has worked alongside YMCA volunteers, staff and community partners to raise millions of dollars, build new facilities, expand services, influence public policy and increase access to essential YMCA programs. These experiences have prepared him for his new role at YMCA Canada, including working collaboratively with YMCA colleagues and leaders in public, private and voluntary sectors to improve the health of people – especially children and youth – and their communities.

Scott is bilingual. He has a graduate degree in management from McGill and continued his education through Harvard Business School's Advanced Management Program and The Director's College at McMaster University. With his wife Linda, he has two adult children and resides in Toronto, ON.

We build strong kids,
strong families,
strong communities.

Plus de vie à la vie
des jeunes, des familles
et de la communauté.
